LOCAL WOMAN'S CLUE SPED RECENT SEARCH

The success of the search for Miss Dorothy Wilder of Ashby, Mass., who at first was feared lost in the Mount Washington region and later seen in Gilead and Bethel, is attributed to the interest taken by Miss Beatrice Brown of Bethel who first noticed her at Gilead. Miss Brown notified the Rumford police and the authorities in New Hampshire, who contacted Miss Wilder's parents and verified the description of the missing woman's clothing.

The following letter of appreciation, which was received by Miss Brown, tells the story:

Ashby, Mass., Sept. 15, 1947
Dear Miss Brown,
Our family owes you many, many thanks for the help you gave them through notifying me, fitting the newspaper story with your observation and reporting it all to the Rumford Police. As you probably know, the call from the Rumford Police started them on the search that ended successfully.

I suppose you would be interested to know that I happened to see an item in a Bangor paper while I was eating breakfast in a diner in Ellsworth on Monday (Sept. 8). That led me to write to my family, explaining my plan and asking them to tell the police that the search was over and promising to wait for mail at Calais. I reached Calais on Monday night and waited there Tuesday and Wednesday morning something led me to look at the papers again. When I learned that the family were searching for me, I went to the Canadian authorities, told them who I was, and asked them if my family had crossed into Canada. As you know from the newspaper account, they reached me Wednesday afternoon.

My parents and sisters have been wonderful about the whole thing, and certainly people all along the way were most helpful and considerate. However, I think we owe the most to you and again I want to express our deep appreciation.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Wilder

BEAN - KIMBALL

A home wedding took place Sept. 6, at 10 A. M., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bean at Hanover, when Eleanor M. Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Kimball of Albany, became the bride of Stanley R. Bean of Hanover.

Rev. Miller from Waterford, performed the double ring ceremony. The bridegroom's sister, Carolyn, and brother, Carroll, served as bridesmaid and best man.

After the ceremony a lunch was served with a delicious three-tiered wedding cake made by the groom's mother.

Two o'clock that afternoon the reception was held.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and her gift to him a billfold, to the bridesmaid a compact and billfold, and to the best man a billfold.

Mr. and Mrs. Bean took a trip through the White Mountains and returned home Sunday evening.

The bride attended schools of Albany and Bethel. The groom attended schools at Hanover and Gould Academy also served two years and eight months in the Army.

Miss Anne Aldrich of Brookline, Mass., a student at Columbia University, is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davis. Miss Aldrich, a graduate of Gould Academy in 1944, has just returned after spending a year in Europe.

In the car with Jironda were Norman Kelley of Rumford, who received cuts on the left leg; Robert Dennis of Rumford who suffered a cut knee and Robert Dupil of Rumford who received a bad cut on the right arm. Jironda had a severe cut on the back of the head.

GOULD CROSS COUNTRY SQUAD WORKING UNDER COACH FOSSETT

Gould Academy's thinclads have been working hard for the opening match of the season which probably will be with Andover High School. The boys this year are training under Coach Clayton Fossett, former Gould Track Coach back in the late twenties and early thirties.

Captain Larry Stinchfield, a letter man from last year's squad, looks good for a number one or two spot this year. Others who look promising are Uno Hertell and Reynold Jordan of last year's team, along with William Glover, a new man to the squad. Other squad members are Dick Bayles, Merle Noyes, and Warren Olson of the 1946 team and the following new candidates: Shelby Putnam, Jim Hickcox, James Gray, Harry Swan, David Buck, Ted Chadbourne, Paul Desautels, and Phil Hussey.

The Cross Country schedule is still incomplete with only two matches scheduled with Andover High School. Probably matches are being planned with Fryeburg Academy, Wilton Academy, and other schools interested in Cross Country. The team matches are planned for Wednesdays of each week and any school looking for dates should contact O. H. Anderson for meets.

MRS. LULA WILLEY

Mrs. Lula Willey passed away at her home Thursday morning after a long illness. She was born Dec. 7, 1902, the daughter of the late Abial and Rhoda (Robinson) Gos. She was married to Guy Willey, who passed away several years ago. She was employed at the L. Tebbets Spool Co. mill for several years.

Surviving relatives are an aunt, an uncle and several cousins. Funeral services were held at Greenwood, funeral home on Saturday at 2 p. m., with Rev. William Penner officiating. Interment was at Locke Mills.

BOOSTER NIGHT SATURDAY AT BEAR RIVER GRANGE

Bear River Grange, Newry, will observe Booster Night Sept. 20. Loton Hutchinson will give a talk on bee culture. A Scotch auction will follow. Refreshments of apple and ice cream will be served by the brothers, after which Lon Wight will furnish music for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Young spent the week end in Boston.

Roderick Giles of Eastport, who is now attending the Maritime Academy at Castine, spent the week end with friends in town.

GOULD OPENS SEASON AT HOME SATURDAY

With just two weeks to prepare for their opening game, Coach Robert Scott with his assistants, Joe Roderick and Ted Emery, have been driving their charges hard. The hot weather has been a definite handicap but hard work has been the rule of the day and the team is now rounding into shape. The visitors will have a game's experience, having met the Pintos last Saturday at Livermore, so should be in better shape and over those first game jitters.

The "Blue and Gold" gridsters will start Saturday with 8 letter men from last year's team. The backfield is complete, with lettermen as Dick Ireland will be at the quarterback position, with Bob Croteau and Dick Melville at the halves. Jerry Davis will be playing his third year at fullback and his 185 lbs should be felt both on offense and backing up the line.

Line lettermen are Captain David Bennett at center, who is also a great line backer. Tackles Wood and Wight and end Young are the other three men who have earned their G's. Jim Brown, Dave Foster, P. Croteau, Emery and Philbrick are other end prospects who should be heard from. Besides the starting tackles Hamilton should see considerable service, while Emmett, Bumpus, and Howe, who are new, should improve.

Although there are no lettermen among the guards, it seems that Adam, and Don Bennett should shape up well as starters. Dymont, Haskell, McAllister, Cummings, Rex Bennett, and Patterson are all making bids for the reserve guards. Backing up Capt. Bennett in the center position is Hill, who was out last year. Foye and Spitz, both new at the game, are also learning fast.

The other backfield men with promise are Marshall and Beedy. Others who should see service are French, Klam, Hunt, and O'Brien. Gary Melville, Wayne Bennett, Saunders, Lowell, Rolfe, and Kandy round out the 1947 squad.

The starting team will be a good sized team with indications of defensive strength. The backfield is fast and are hard runners. The weakness of the team is in its reserves.

Last year the Scott charges came through with 6 wins, a tie, and one loss. Looking this year's prospects out of the question as much depends on the durability of the starting line-up or the development of the green reserves. Also Gould face many new foes, the strength of which is not known Lyndon Institute and St. Johnsbury Academy, both of Vermont, are new opponents as is also Kennett High of Conway, N. H., and Livermore Falls High School.

Saturday's game with Livermore Falls is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. on Alumni Field.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

THE AMERICAN WAY

CHINESE WISDOM

By George Peck

The peoples of the world are presently choosing between two philosophies of government—the Government-Owned-You kind as exemplified by Russia and the You-Own-The-Government type of which the U. S. A. is the leading exponent.

Throughout history the world has been cursed with leaders, who on the pretext of helping the so-called common man, have seized power. Always the lot of the common man eventually has been made more difficult, not bettered. Dictators, no matter how well intentioned they may have been when they took over, always have succeeded in destroying themselves and the peoples who were foolish enough to turn over the reins of government to them.

Kung Fu-Tse, Chinese Philosopher of the 5th Century, B. C., more popularly known as Confucius, said a number of things that are very pertinent to the present day, although spoken over 2,400 years ago.

When asked for a definition of good government, Confucius said: "It consists in providing enough food to eat, in keeping soldiers to guard the State, and in winning the confidence of the people. If one of these three things has to be sacrificed, sacrifice the soldiers. And if of the two remaining things, one has to be sacrificed, let it be the food, for from the beginning men have always had to die. BUT WITHOUT THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PEOPLE NO GOVERNMENT CAN STAND AT ALL."

When someone inquired of him as to when is good government, Confucius said: "Government is good when it makes happy those who live under it, and attracts those who live far away."

And to one who wished to know the essentials of good government, he said, "The wise and good ruler is benevolent without expending treasure; he lays burdens on the people without causing them to grumble; he has desires without being covetous; he is serene without being proud; he is awe-inspiring without being ferocious. And how is he benevolent without expending treasure? In imposing burdens, he chooses the right time and the right means, and nobody can grumble."

And even before Confucius, another Chinese philosopher, Iao Tzu, of the 6th Century, B. C. had this to say: "In the highest antiquity, the people did not know they had rulers. In the next age, they loved and praised them. In the next, they despised them. . . . IF THE GOVERNMENT IS PRYING AND MEDDLING, THERE WILL BE CONSTANT INTERACTION OF THE LAW. . . . The people starve because those in authority over them devour too many taxes. . . . The people are difficult to govern because those placed over them are meddling."

A study of the writings of these wise old Chinese philosophers would certainly do no harm to some of our bureaucrats who now "pry and meddle" and "devour too many taxes" on the banks of the Potomac. From Confucius and Iao Tzu they would learn that "WITHOUT THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PEOPLE NO GOVERNMENT CAN STAND AT ALL."

As a matter of fact, it would not be amiss for some of our elected representatives at Washington to absorb a bit of Chinese wisdom.

What's Wrong With Profit?

Some folks have the idea that profit is something business takes unfairly and harmfully out of buying and selling and manufacturing. This idea is that whatever a company earns, no matter if it is a fraction or a percent of the total sales, this money is extracted underhandedly from the public. If you have ever felt that way, I dare you to take a good, straight look at America's economic picture—and yourself.

You are paid a salary or a wage each week, are you not? You have invested your time, your energy, your brain-power, your muscle-power, your special skills, your training and experience. Do you think each time you get your check, that you have done something harmful to your community? Do you feel that you have cheated America? Chances are that you do not feel that way at all.

Taking Profits
You may be able, after paying all your expenses, to put a little into the bank or insurance. You may be interested in investing a part of your savings in stocks or bonds. If you are like most Americans, you find you can invest in some luxury goods. That is, you put some money into a car, an electric refrigerator, or perhaps a good collection of fishing tackle. You find that these and other things you can put your profit into will help you continue to live and to work.

Business corporations are pretty much like this picture of yourself. Whether General Motors, the corner delicatessen, or yourself—profit is what is left over after all the bills are paid. Profit results from good management, thrift, imagination, and hard work. The big corporation turns some profits back into the company for new plants and new tools. The rest goes to the folks whose buildings, tools, machinery, and money the company has been using.

Way to More Wages
This profit is usually none too much. Compensation of employees in 1945, as estimated by the Department of Commerce, would have gone up only 7.9 per cent if the entire corporation income of the country had been turned into wages. Yet, if this were done, it would mean that millions of people, perhaps including yourself, would fail to receive dividends. Corporations would soon become bankrupt. Jobs would become scarce.

The most important thing is that good profits and good wages go along together. The success of an enterprise, as well as the well-being of everyone who gets income, depends upon profits. When corporations have to accept losses, or even meager profits, wages for everybody go down and jobs become hard to find. It is not just chance that brings these two things, small profits and low wages, in the very same years. They belong together. All of us want profits. Why then, all the hullabaloo about wanting business enterprise to hand over any profit it makes to employees? To do this would be to cut our own throats. What we really need is more folks with the idea of going into business, making money, and employing people. The need is not more bankrupt corporations, but more profit, more wages, and better living for everybody.

HIGHLIGHTS HERE 'N THERE

A LOOK AT OIL

As the summer vacation moves to a close, the achievement of the oil industry in meeting an unprecedented demand for gasoline and other oil products can be seen in its proper light.

There have been minor, localized shortages of gas, largely as a result of transportation difficulties—but no one has been seriously inconvenienced, much less left indefinitely with a dry tank. The oil industry's vast productive and distributive resources have been strained but they have not cracked. The production line which brings in our petroleum—from well to refinery to tank car or pipeline and finally to the service station—has stood up under the impact of a demand which is greater than in wartime, and which was largely unexpected.

There are various reasons for this. One is the intense competition within the industry, with a legion of companies seeking consumer favor. Another has been the typically American spirit of meeting a challenge with every conceivable resource.

THE BUREAUCRAT IN THE SADDLE

The American idea of government being a servant rather than a master of the people, cannot be fully appreciated until one has been forced to approach a public official or a public agency in an attitude of supplication. Immediately the position of private citizen and public servant undergoes a chilling reversal, particularly if the matter involves the economic welfare of the private citizen.

Nowadays it is easy to illustrate how quickly the private citizen can be reduced to the status of a favor-seeking subject. For example, in a little Oregon community the people decided to vote into existence a Public Utility District. They had been told that this was the best way of getting the greatest benefit from the government's Bonneville power dam on the Columbia River. As a result, the local community went into debt to buy out the local power company. A tax-free political organization was set up to dispense electric power with absolute authority over rates and unhindered by any form of state regulation. The PUD threatened heavy penalties for connection of energy-using appliances without permission. For example, one home brought a new electric water heater which the owner was not permitted to connect for nearly two years. There was no recourse to utility commissions or to any regulatory agency such as would have been the case with a private electric company.

It is hard to realize except through personal experience, even of the mildest nature, the helplessness of the individual when he is pitted against uncontrolled political authority. It is a kind of monopoly that crushes the human soul. Ultimately, as the plight of suffering millions the world over testifies, it becomes the difference between life and death—and it is a perilously short step from one to the other.

COAL — "MADE IN AMERICA"

The constant labor conflicts which have disturbed the soft coal industry may have convinced part of the public that the American mines are something of a relic from a dark age, untouched by the march of progress.

The truth is that our mines are far and away the most advanced in the world. Even before the British mines were socialized, their American counterparts were much more productive. Since socialization, British production has gone down, and the American advantage has increased. This is largely the result of an extensive mechanization program, covering many years, which cost the mine owners tens of millions of dollars.

One consequence of the high efficiency of coal mining in the United States has been the record wages now earned by mine workers—wages substantially higher than those paid in any other comparable industry. Another consequence has been an abundance of coal. The only coal shortages in this country have been caused by strikes, and have been rapidly made up once work was resumed.

As a result of the war, followed by sharply reduced production in the European and British coal mines, much of the world is now dependent on American coal for industrial and social rehabilitation. Coal — "Made in America" coal — has thus become an instrument of world stabilization. Cold people, like hungry people, are ripe for dictators, and men on white horses. Our coal experts may help to prevent great national tragedies in Europe.

A man worth ten million dollars is no happier than a man worth nine million. Which is proof that money does not always bring happiness.

ESTIMATED MAINE WILL PRODUCE 50,000 TURKEYS THIS YEAR

Despite high feed costs, Maine will produce about 50,000 turkeys this year, offering those who prefer the traditional Thanksgiving Day bird about the same buying opportunity they had in pre-war years.

That was the opinion expressed Friday by Leroy C Brown of Augusta, marketing specialist in the Maine Department of Agriculture's Division of Markets.

The expected 50,000 bird production, Brown said, is about 1,000 turkeys under last year's figure, but places Maine favorably — as should be at Thanksgiving time — in comparison with the rest of the nation. "Nationally," he said, "farmers are producing sixteen percent less turkeys this year."

Brown said this year's crop of turkeys was approximately equal to pre-war production, and that, "while a part has already moved to market, the balance of the remaining production will be fattened for Thanksgiving dinners."

As to possible price, "turkey, compared with other foods, can scarcely be classed as a luxury this year," he concluded.

EXTENSION SERVICES RENDER GOOD SERVICE

The Agricultural Extension Services of the various states in the Nation render good service to the farm and nonfarm families with which they work, according to a study just issued of "Extension Activities and Accomplishments, 1946."

A total of 4,494,808 farm families were reported to have made some changes last year in farm or home practices as a direct result of Extension workers. Correspondingly 2,113,685 nonfarm families were influenced to make some change in agricultural or home economics practices. In 1946, 69,536 communities were organized to conduct Extension activities. The number of farm and non farm homes with 4-H club boys and girls, enrolled was listed as 1,194,830. Since the basic purpose of Extension work is to aid the rural people in learning how to improve their practices in farming and homemaking, this report would seem to show that the Figures obtained from the State Bridge Authority at Farmington indicate a considerable increase in tolls paid during the Labor Day week end this month. In the same period a year ago, these figures, as quoted to the State Highway Department, were:

Friday before Labor Day: 1,210 more vehicles on the bridge than on the same day of 1946; on Saturday this year, 1,373 more than last year; Sunday, 785 more; on Labor Day 1,547 more than a year ago; and on the day following Labor Day, more this year than last.

Comparative figures between year 1941 and the past two years, 1946 and 1947, indicate that more traffic crossed the Inter-State bridge during the Labor Day week end in 1941 than in either 1946 or 1947. The month of August this year showed a considerably greater number of vehicles crossing and out of Maine than during the last pre-war year. The State Highway Department attributes this fact to an inclination of the part of vacationers to get out of the State before the day rush. While more than 13,000 on Labor Day, this year, against some 15,000 and 16,000 respectively on the same days in the total August traffic this year totaled more than 307,000 as only 280,000-odd in August of

What, so far as I have been informed, constitutes the first from Maine in the New England States Green Pastures contest recently arrived at my office in form of a letter from Lester Evans of the Reed Farm, Bridgton. As most everyone knows the contest was prompted by assertion by Governor Charles Dale of New Hampshire on 3 last that his state offers the pasturage in New England.

This challenge was prompted by Governor Bradford of Massachusetts, myself and the contest for 1947 augmented through a meeting of State Agricultural Department representatives and Extension vice officials at Durham, N. H. July 28 last. Richard F Talbot, ry specialist of the Maine Extension Service, Harold Shaw, ford dairyman, and Oscar W. crop, specialist at the University of Maine, were our State's representatives. Talbot has been named Commissioner Albert K. Gair of our State Department of culture, to be Maine's member of the contest committee. The ing for the greenest pastures various New England states pected to be between June 2 July 20 and the awards w made at the Eastern States position next September at S field, Mass.

Recent mail has brought expressions of interest in Maine's over control and operation of former Camp Tanglewood and den Hills Recreational Demonstration Area near Camden, partly the former. The Federal Government previously operated the area under the National Park Service and maintained a superintendent there. Earlier this year my was notified by the National Service that the area was abandoned as a Federal project that the State of Maine might over control and operation of the area. The supervisor, Mr N H Foster, was kept on the job until the end of August and were notified during that time that the area was to be closed. Mr Foster's services to the area discontinued there before Day week end. As a result of protests from the Camden Chamber of Commerce and others, we able to secure permission of Thomas J Allen, superintendent of the National Park Service, to this order rescinded and to have park kept open through Labor Day.

Subsequently, on September members of our State Park Commission met at the Camden area with representatives of National Park Service the various Camden groups to discuss measures pertinent to taking over and operation of the State of the entire project. Park Commission is formulating its conclusions and will report to the Executive Council for further action and decisions.

Ohio Candidate For President?

COLUMBUS, OHIO — (Soundphoto)—Senator Robert A. Taft, speaking at the Republican Rally at the Neal House, charged the "blundering policy" of the Truman administration in handling the occupation of Germany has wrecked the entire economic set-up of Europe. Taft was urged to become a candidate for the presidency in 1948 and was backed by his colleague Senator John W. Bricker (who was rumored for presidency). Rep. Clarence Brown, national committeeman was instructed by the state committee to "take all steps necessary" and "helpful" to bring to the attention of Republicans of other states, Senator Taft's unusual qualifications and availability for the presidency.

Transform Vegetables Into Savory Dishes For Lunch or Supper

Asparagus takes on a pleasing look as well as extra flavor when green tips are tucked in between layers of cheese biscuit, topped with sauce and garnished with slices of hard-cooked eggs.

Remember when we just cooked vegetables in boiling, salted water and put them on the table without any thought as to whether serving or not?

First of all, there are innumerable ways you can use with "perfectly cooked" vegetables to bring out all their hidden flavors. Then, if you want to forego the sauce, you can combine vegetables with other foods to make them palatable and tempting.

Break cauliflower into flowerettes. Arrange cauliflower and carrots in buttered casserole. Cover with sauce, breadcrumbs, and butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, removing cover the last 15 minutes.

Stuffed Eggplant
Cut a lid from one large eggplant lengthwise, scoop out pulp and cook in boiling salted water until tender, drain and chop fine. Sauté one small minced onion in butter until soft, not brown, add eggplant, one half cup of bread crumbs, one half cup of chopped pecans, and two well-beaten eggs. Mix well with seasonings. Lastly add enough water in which the eggplant was cooked to make the mixture quite thin. Fill shell and sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter and bake about twenty minutes.

Spinach Balls
Wash one peck of spinach in several waters, then cover tightly and steam with just the drippings from the washing for about fifteen minutes. Squeeze as dry as possible. Chop and press through a coarse sieve. Into this puree mix two slightly beaten egg yolks, one tablespoon of grated onion, one tablespoon of olive oil, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and form into balls, dip in beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs, and fry in hot fat to a golden brown.

HERE is a story that is exclusive—at the moment. Bing Crosby has already cut the records for his first three radio shows this fall, and will start the new season with Gary Cooper as his guest star. Cooper, who doesn't make many appearances on the air, will cut loose and sing, with Bing. That will be the October 1 broadcast. Al Jolson will be on the second or third program, which puts to rest the rumor that he'd never work with Crosby again because Bing was annoyed by the gossip that he'd never had a Hooper rating till Jolson did that first guest shot on his program.

couldn't pass a New York network audition. It took an Arch Oboler script to prove to the radio big shots that she was a fine actress.

Farley Granger is in pictures because he answered a want ad, Samuel Goldwyn, looking for a romantic juvenile to play opposite Anne Baxter in "North Star," ran the ad; the young actor saw it, got the role and a seven-year contract. Then he was in "Purple Heart"; next, he joined the navy. His first film since his discharge is RKO's "Your Red Wagon."

Maybe the decision won't stick, but Eddie Cantor insists that "If You Know Susie" is not only his best picture, but his last. From now on he will make himself available to any cause where he is needed; his record in philanthropic work is already an impressive one. His radio show returns September 25, with the entire cast working without scripts.

Parke Johnson had quite a day—caught a three-pound bass and signed up with a new sponsor for his Vox Pop show during just a few hours. He was fishing, with no luck, on his Texas ranch, when his partner, Warren Hull, called him from New York. A messenger summoned Johnson to the phone, five miles away, he gave his consent to the deal, went back and caught the bass.

"Silence on the Air" It says on the dials behind which a radio program is being broadcast. The new March of Time takes you behind these doors, in "Is Everybody Listening?" shows you the stars at work, lets you see broadcasts that never have studio audiences, gives you a comprehensive view of what goes on behind what you hear on the air.

Robert Mutcham has a fan club made up of girls who have never seen him in person or on the screen; the president of the New York club sent him a photo to a cousin in Chicago. Mutcham, who founded the club.

Ann Miller will start her new MGM contract with a role that many a girl will envy her. It is the lead in "Words and Music," based on the lives and music of Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. She'll sing the songs, dance to the music.

If you take all things you certainly must be "I Walk Alone," headline up. Dorothy F. S. H. Bart Lancaster and Jane Langham, it includes eight 1947 stars.

"Dear Ruth" has not quite a record. Paramount's top holdover for use of the year, every one of its first five engagements has resulted in its being held over all across the country. Without Holden and Jeanne Crain.

Growing Old Successfully
Is Formula for Happiness

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Latest figures from the census bureau have revealed that the postwar period has produced a record baby crop—3,260,000 estimated for 1946, almost a million more than were born in 1940.

But it will take more than this belated burst of rejuvenation to keep the United States from becoming an "old" nation. Old in the sense that the average age will be high, with a heavy proportion of oldsters. There are two reasons for this: Nowadays people live much longer, thanks to medical science. And the size of the American family has shrunk.

In 1860 when the population was about 31.5 millions, 860,000 persons were over 65. In 1945 when the population approached 140 millions, 9,920,000 persons were over 65.

By 1970 there will be 16 million over that age, out of an estimated population of more than 151 millions!

This situation poses a number of problems for the nation, and also emphasizes the personal problem: The problem of growing old.

Like many of our troubles, real or imagined, the best cure is to bring this one out into the light, give it a good shaking. The result in many cases will be that it disappears or that it shrinks to unimportance (if that weren't so, psychiatry wouldn't be such a highly rewarded profession).

Wise men have known this for a long time and lived to a happy old age. Others (who didn't know it) have worried their friends and themselves to early deaths, by sitting down and weeping over their lost youth instead of getting up, learning to take old age in their stride and liking it.

Recently I read a very up-to-date little pamphlet called "When You Grow Older," written in straightforward English, based on modern, scientific ideas. The pamphlet outlines methods which make that famous poem by Browning, so often regarded as wishful thinking by the skeptical, ring true. "Grow old along with me," said Browning's Rabbi Ben Ezra, "The best is yet to be."

When I grasped the theme of this pamphlet, it stirred classic memories. I remembered that a gentleman who considerably predated Browning had said the same thing in his essay "On Old Age," written in the year 44 B. C. I refer to Marcus Tullius Cicero. He said (among other pertinent things) "qui autem omnia a se ipsi petunt, eis nihil potest videri, quod naturae necessitas adferat." Which, if you'll pardon my freedom with the text, means that those who seek their happiness from within can never regard nature's inevitabilities as bad.

Cicero wrote that essay when he was 63 years old and I have no doubt he would have lived what he preached for another decade or two if his vigorous old age had not produced the resounding "Philippics" against Anthony which resulted in his being "purged" (Roman style) while still hale and hearty at 64.

Like Cicero, Messrs. George Lawton and Maxwell Stewart, authors of the pamphlet I mentioned, stress the psychological problems of old age. (The pamphlet is issued by the Public Affairs Committee, Inc., a non-profit, educational organization, 22 East 38th St., New York City—20 cents.)

Old age comes with a shock because we haven't prepared for it. Maybe we are ready for the "last day at the office" or at the work bench or when we sell the farm and move to the village or city, or in other ways break a lifetime's routine. But we may have failed to recognize "the need to feel important," a need which we must satisfy one way or another. Not "important" in the sense that we have somebody kow-tow to us, but necessary to somebody or some thing, some business, some undertaking, maybe not a big cog, but something that helps the wheels of life go round.

That is the oldsters' No. 1 mental problem.

"To grow old successfully," say the modern Ciceros I'm quoting, "a man must learn to push around, not his body, but his mind."

The original Cicero put it, "the great affairs of life are not performed by physical strength, or activity, or nimbleness of body, but by deliberation, character, expression of opinion."

Everybody can't raise Cain in the senate as the great Roman did, but he can, to revert to the modern mentors, "train himself in advance in skills which will hold up with age, and even improve. . . . Women are better at this than men. . . . women have more ailments and disabilities, but they do not die from them. Instead they outlive men by an average of five years."

Avocations Help
To Retain Youth

Anybody can develop an avocation of some kind. In many cases these avocations have turned into paying vocations after retirement. In any case they are literally life-savers when it comes to making life livable.

Various skills permit varying periods of activity.

Many farmers are self-supporting at 70 or 75. Perhaps this is partly because of their environment—mental and physical. Cicero says farmers "are not hindered to any extent by old age, and seem to me to approach the ideal wise man's life."

The deadline for active pursuits varies greatly with the individual, too, our pamphlet tells us, but whether a person stops working at 60 or 70, he should be prepared with some interest which he can develop, either for his livelihood, if necessary, or for his peace of mind if he is financially independent. Less than half the oldsters are financially independent.

Most jobs are of such a character that ability to perform them declines with the years. "When You Grow Older," cites as an example "speed work"—like the assembly line. Youth excels in this type of work. But age does almost as well as youth in the type classified as "power" work, the kind of job where skill is important.

There is not space here to develop the theme of "When You Grow Older" as its authors do so compactly in their 30 pages. They discuss the questions, personal and political, of old age securely. They offer a host of other specific examples to illustrate the statements, a few of which I have quoted here. I have attempted to review rather than summarize, moved to comment partly because of the valuable suggestions offered, and also partly because these pertinent paragraphs of "When You Grow Older" offer a perfect example of how modern science and experience combine to verify the wisdom of the past.

It is still the habit of many critics to praise the style of Cicero's "De senectute" but to toss its message aside as wishful thinking. Even Montaigne, who said frankly that reading the essay "made one long to grow old," pessimistically limited what he considered a useful lifespan to a mere 50 years and thought it wrong to contemplate further existence.

There is a great deal to be learned from the fragments of Cicero's "De senectute" but to view it as wishful thinking is to miss the point. The point is that the oldsters' No. 1 mental problem is to find a way to feel important, to find a way to feel that they are still part of the world.

That is the oldsters' No. 1 mental problem.

"To grow old successfully," say

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday Services at 10:45 A. M.

All are cordially invited to attend.

Wednesday evening meeting at 7:30 p. m.

"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 21.

The Golden Text is: "Little children, keep your selves from idols" (1

John 5: 21).

The citations from the Bible include the following passages:

"Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns that can hold no water. But to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him;"

(Jeremiah 2: 5, 13 and 1 Corinthians 8: 6).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy;

"Divine Science deals its chief blow at the supposed material foundations of life and intelligence.

It denounces idolatry. A belief in other

Gods, other creators, and other creations must go down before

Christian Science (page 535; 10-14).

DAY AND NIGHT SERVICE

Speeding through the night, the driver of this car was momentarily blinded by approaching headlights. Because he was going too fast to control his car instantly, he swerved off the highway and crashed into a telephone pole with such force that the car was almost broken in two. He was dead when help arrived. National Conservation Bureau advises night-drivers to keep their eyes focused on the side of the road, never to look directly into headlights and—most important of all—to drive at moderate speed.
